Evan Sirkey's basketball experience is robust, he learned as a young kid and continues to actively play today. A local product, he played for Quince Orchard High School's team accumulated an impressive winning percentage as the starting point guard for their varsity squad.

Upon graduation in 2010, he attended Towson University studying sport management with a minor in business administration. Evan decided to play and star on the club team at Towson, instead of pursuing full time college athletics. Upon graduating from Towson he began his coaching career at his alma mater, Quince Orchard High School. He was the assistant coach for the junior varsity and varsity level for two seasons.

He made great connections during his stint with QO, as he linked up with Koa Sports League in the summer of 2015. He started off as an intern and proved his worth earning a spot in the front office as the Assistant Athletic Director assisting with all programs with a main concentration with basketball. Now Evan Sirkey is the Director of Basketball Operations at Koa Sports. He is looking forward to helping kids grow and take full advantage of this extra year to be well equipped to reach their basketball goals.
